Agriculture

Agriculture and farming have been a huge part of my family's life for well over a century and for as long as I can remember I've been around farms.

I never really knew what I wanted to do when I was younger but in the last couple of years as I have had the opportunity to spend more time on the land, my love for the agriculture industry has continued to grow and now, I couldn't think of doing anything else with my life. Now that I'm in year 12, it's a brilliant opportunity to formalise my current skills and learn more with a formal qualification in Agriculture.

I go to school three days a week to do my VCE and then I travel two hours each way one day a week to go to the farm where classes are held. On my fifth day, I do work placement which means my week comes together really well with my agriculture studies.

The day at TAFE and our class structure is very hands-on. We learn fencing techniques and sheep handling, and we're currently learning about different soils and treatments, so this aspect is classroom based. This is my second year at TAFE and there are two classes with about 15 people in each. We all have the same career goals of getting into the agriculture industry so it's good to bounce ideas off each other or help each other out in class projects.

My teachers are fantastic – each of them has a different agriculture background and so they each bring a different quality to the class. Combined, their experience covers dairy farming, agronomy and cattle rearing and farming as well as knowledge of farming logistics. One of the best parts is class is talking to the teachers about their experience and knowledge of the industry, it makes me confident that what I know from my farming background and experience is validated and also excited because I have so much more to learn.

In our first year of study, we were able to go to the Royal Melbourne Show to assist the Certificate III Agriculture students with steer-showing. Getting this experience and exposure to the wider agriculture industry throughout my course is one of the reasons why I chose to come to Melbourne Polytechnic.

As far as the future goes, I'm focused on sheep husbandry, my work placements have been around stock feeds and grain handling businesses so I'm really gaining a broad-based knowledge of the wider industry. My next career steps will be to gain a Diploma in Agriculture when I finish Year 12 and then continue working.

Animal Care

I am currently studying in year 12 and have always had a real passion for animals. My goal is to become a veterinary nurse and study for a Bachelor of Veterinary Nursing when I finish school.

Studying Certificate II in Animal Studies gives me credits for my future studies in the animal industry, so it made sense for me to apply myself in my interest area whilst I'm still studying for my VCE. People who work in this industry do so much important work – communicating and diagnosing animals who don't have a voice is hard but very rewarding and I can't wait to continue learning more.

Once a week for four hours, I go to Melbourne Polytechnic to the animal studies lab and learn the theory and practical elements of animal care. There are subjects in applying first aid, sourcing information on specific animal care and sustainability in the industry. We also do some basic grooming techniques as in a real-life veterinary clinic, basic grooming may come up from time to time. We mostly focus on domestic animals, but we're currently working with farm animals at Bundoora Park Farm. We get to clean animal pens, feed animals and learn basic animal care and handling skills. We clean and restock Timmi the alpaca's pen, prepare food and feed the sheep, herd the chickens into their run.

So far my favourites were Millie the barn cat and Ben the Clydesdale horse. We have done some work with different birds and a turtle and some insects as well.

It's a totally different environment to school, we do lots of practical assessments and the classroom at Melbourne Polytechnic can be anything from a lab to a farmyard. Our teachers bring their dogs to class, we get to spend time with them, and they support us with our learning. The dogs also provide emotional support for any student, and they make the classroom a fun environment. We get to do some of our practical work on the dogs like bathing them, providing health checks or creating a feeding plan for them. Currently we have Jewel the Labrador who is our teacher Judy's dog and Kalu the Labrador who is our teacher Leah's dog. Leah is also a practising Vet Nurse at Lort Smith Animal Hospital and she provides lots of information based on her experience.

My class size is around 20 and there are people from loads of different schools that come for the course. It's great to meet new people with a common interest and we all get along great. My teachers are very professional and knowledgeable in animal care, and they can relate to all the students in the class really well.

The course gives me credits to my VCE and is also helpful towards my ATAR score as well.

I love all animals and I'm really passionate about my future with animals. Choosing a favourite is really hard but if I had to choose, my favourite animal would be a dog.

It's an enjoyable learning environment and is overall a great experience.

The teachers and students are very kind and we all get along quickly, it is an enjoyable learning environment and is overall a great experience.

Early Childhood Education and Care

Early education is definitely my calling, my parents owned a childcare centre for many years so it was pretty much a certainty that I would happily go down that path.

When I was in year 12, I had a discussion with my teacher, talking about future career paths and they told me that I could do a TAFE course and get a qualification while I'm still at school. Every week for an afternoon I went to Melbourne Polytechnic to study Certificate III in Early Childhood Education and Care (CHC30121).

I am now at university doing a bachelor's degree in early years childcare.

My favourite part of the whole experience was definitely the social aspect of coming to class, I made so many new friends and connections. Unlike school where everyone is learning fundamentals but on a different path, in my childcare class, we all had a common goal and interest. It was great to be able to share ideas and challenges. I guess it's easy to initially think childhood education is about teaching kids how to read or play, but there is so much more to it – building relationships and trust, developing healthy learning spaces including first aid and learning about ethics and legal factors in a childcare setting.

As I mentioned I am now at Uni and the TAFE environment is so different to the university. I had a really close relationship with my course teacher at Melbourne Polytechnic and because the class sizes are small, my teacher had time to really explain elements of the course and make sure I was reaching my potential. I'm still making amazing friends and learning a lot at Uni but the environment is just very different.

I've had the privilege of being familiar with childcare settings ever since I can remember but for anyone who is new to childcare, Melbourne Polytechnic's facilities are amazing.

Of course, there are traditional classroom settings where we learn but the simulation childcare rooms are so realistic. It really helps to be able to put your theoretical learning into practice and makes you super confident for when you hit the real world of working.

Doing this VET course helps with credits for further study, and depending on how many units you do, this can be applied to your ATAR score for Uni admission.

I'm currently working in the industry alongside my Uni studies and even though my parents no longer have a childcare centre they are looking at acquiring one so back to the family business, this time fully qualified to lead the minds of the future.
